Paid parking takes effect in September

By Paul Smith

Paid parking will become a reality in the future, it was announced last week by Jack Williamson, director of finance for the college.

A parking fee committee chaired by Steven Hinton, associate director of finance, reported last month their recommendation to implement paid parking and faculty has already been given approval by the state.

The recommendation is based on studies by the college. A Board of Governors and the state have approved the plan. The committee of faculty and administrators are all in agreement to begin parking fees in September.

With a recommendation for more revenue, the college is now considering a parking fee to help pay for the costs of the parking lot. The fee will be $2.00 per hour.

The fee will be $2.00 per hour. This is money that should be added to the students' account at the college. The fee will be $2.00 per hour.
